

DAILY RECORD-UNION

THURSDAY.....JANUARY 31, 1889.
AN OUTRAGEOUS AND DANGEROUS BILL.

Assembly Bill No. 303, to establish uniform liquor license, has been reported back with a recommendation that it do pass. This is the bill, the animus of which the RECORD-UNION laid bare last week. It is almost incomprehensible that any legislators who are supposed to be impressed with a due sense of their obligations to the people, can be brought to favor such an infamous measure—no milder term will adequately characterize the bill.

The proposition is to fix the rate for all licenses for the sale of liquors at $21 per quarter, that sum to be in full for State, county, town, township and city liquor licenses. The result of the passage of such a bill will be to rob the people of the right of local self-government. If the legislators who are pushing this ill-favored measure do not know, it is time that they should, that in the science of government there is settled one principle beyond all controversy—that the aim of legislation should be to bring government as closely as possible to the people; this bill is at sword's points with that principle. It proposes to deprive towns, cities and counties of the privilege granted by Section 11 of Article XI of the Constitution.

The simple truth is that the bill is the offspring of the whisky traffic, and proposes to deliver over the communities of the State, bound hand and foot, captives to the saloon interest. The San Francisco standard of license is adopted, and all other cities and counties are to be forced to mold their policy to conform to it. But San Francisco is a consolidated city and county government, and the only one in the State. The licenses there collected go into one treasury, and are not subject to any division. Applied to Sacramento, however, the operation of the bill reduces the license-tax upon saloons and bars by $9 on each bar per quarter. Thus, the city collects as the minimum $15 per quarter from saloons and $7.50 from grocery bars. The county collects $15 all around. The bill proposes, as we have said, that the $21 rate shall cover both city and county licenses, and the county shall make the collections and put the money into its treasury.

The city of Sacramento, therefore, which receives $13,600 annually from liquor licenses from her 300 bars, and ought to and will presently receive a great deal more from a less number, if this saloon garnet is not applied, is to be despoiled of that much of her revenue, and the whole sum, as shown, turned over to the county. The result will be to increase city taxation by just as much as is necessary to meet the deficit the bill will create.

Is it not enough that this city is struggling under a heavy debt and heavy taxation that it should now be delivered up to the mercy of the saloon interest? Is it not enough that these people must be taxed exorbitantly to punish crime, three-fourths of which is traceable directly to the saloon and liquor drinking, that they shall now be prevented from taxing the liquor traffic to make it bear some small part of the expense of maintaining a police force, Police Courts and prisons? Is it not enough that Sacramento now has one drinking bar to every twenty voters, drinkers and abstainers combined, that she must be stripped of the mean privilege of assessing something of the burden of city government upon the thriving bar interest? Is there any demand upon the Legislature by the people for the action now proposed? Is there any public outcry that licenses shall remain at the present figures for merchants, but be discriminatingly reduced upon liquor bars? Are the people of San Diego with their high license; the people of Sutter with one saloon in the county; the people of Tehama with a regulatory license tax; the voters of Los Angeles, with an imposed tax more than twice as high as that of Assembly bill 303, asking for any change, or beseeching the Legislature to destroy, so far as liquor licenses are concerned, the value of the constitutional grant referred to?

The men who are pushing this after-birth of infamy are going too far; they do not properly estimate the strength of the sentiment of the people, rapidly attaining great proportions, that demands not the lessening of the tax-paying duty of the whisky bar, but its great increase. They will find that this last turn of the screw has aroused the giant, popular will, and that it will presently arise and crush it. The election of 1868, and the constitutional grant referred to?

In the State of California, we repeat, seventy-five per cent of the crime, misery, poverty and human suffering and seventy-five per cent of the taxation due to those evils, is directly chargeable to the liquor traffic. As an economic proposition, therefore—and we disclaim entertaining any other view of the matter in this discussion—it is simply impossible with reason, justice or any sense of common decency, to refuse to leave to the communities of California the privilege of taxing that traffic to make it respond in some degree for the results of its business.

There is political death and social disgrace for the legislators who vote to rob the people of the right of local self-government, as this bill aims to do. How such men will meet the people of Los Angeles, Sutter, San Diego, Alameda, Tehama, Colusa and other counties where a fair license is imposed, we do not even pause to speculate upon. What the will of the people of those localities will be when it is lifted up on this question we have no sort of doubt. There will roll from the valleys and mountains presently a wave of popular indignation that will sweep the men who are now endeavoring to strip the cities and towns of California of their license income, into an obscurity from which it will be best for themselves and their names that they never emerge. Let it be remembered that the friends of higher license and local regulation have not raised or opened the issue Assembly bill 303 makes. The liquor interest has deliberately taken the affirmative position in legislation and put the people upon the defensive; it has invoked the storm that is certain to speedily break, and they must not complain of the result.

THE BILL SHOULD PASS.

It is said that an Assembly committee will report adversely to the passage of the London exhibition bill. But this should not at all discourage the friends of the measure, but rather stimulate them to the output of greater energy. The virtues of the bill are not to be negated by lack of breadth of view by a committee which may not be insensible to conviction of its error. Its sincerity we do not doubt, but that it has not risen to the level of the full importance of the bill, we believe. It is not unusual for great and beneficial schemes to meet with opposition at the outset. Such as the one under consideration has had no precedent in California, and it is not therefore surprising that some citizens should look upon it as merely experimental, when in fact similar efforts by other communities have demonstrated their great wisdom and potential beneficial capacity. We look forward to the House debate upon the bill for such an array of ideas as will develop conclusively the strength and virtue of the proposition and result in its passage. It is a scheme born of pure purpose and statesmanship, having for its beneficiary the whole State of California, and for the recipients of its bounty every industry and productive vocation of this State. There are times in the history of all new States, which, if improved, lead them to high prosperity, but which, if neglected, may not again present. We believe that such an hour has been reached in the history of California, and that if the State strikes demand for her products, that may be found to have slipped from her hands beyond the hope of recovery. To expand the sum of $250,000 for the improvement of present opportunities, is as nothing when we are pouring out hundreds of thousands of dollars for other purposes. In the light of what we know will be the result of a California exhibition at the world's market and travel-center, we believe that there is no other measure before the Legislature, and never has been, looking to State-building and healthful development, that can be considered as level with the importance of the London exhibition proposition.

There has been a good deal of correspondence and debate concerning the payment and cancellation and the possible double payment of coupons of Sacramento city bonds. It has had one good effect; it has much enlightened the people upon the details of the law of our city debt. It has also made clear the wisdom of at once adopting what we have not now, a system of book-keeping, by which the bond number of every coupon as paid shall be entered, along with the date and amount of payment, thus removing all possibility of subsequent confusion and contention. It is now stated by the senior member of the Funded Debt Commission that the evidences have been found of record showing that about $11,000 worth of coupons of 1861 have been twice paid, they having been abstracted after surrender by some unknown person over twenty-five years ago—that is, the evidence recited justify that conclusion in the absence of any showing to the contrary. The article affects to dismiss, asocalled-for, "the mystery of the missing coupons," while the author of the article lays stress on the fact that the idea that Emperor Frederick was a "nightmare to the Chancellor." He furthermore knew from Frederick that he would never succeed his father. "Who could therefore be surprised?" writes the author, "that the Emperor, in his cancer to make haste?" The article also severely criticizes the present Emperor, and calls him a "weakling." The author, however, found no difficulty in treating his mother as a murderer after Emperor Frederick's own death.

GENERAL HARRISON, it is believed, has been consulted by President Cleveland in regard to the Samoan involvement. If so, it was a proper step, since the desire of President Cleveland must be to have the policy of the incoming Administration free from unfavorable contracts with the outgoing in matters concerning our foreign relations. There is also room to believe that General Harrison favors a vigorous American policy and a protest backed by a demand upon Germany. That demand, we believe, will be for the restoration of the status quo, which will mean the reseating of Malietoa as the chief or King of the confederated Samoan tribes. We will then be in a position to unite with the other treaty Powers in adjusting any difficulties between them and the Samoans. There is nothing in the situation at present to justify the fear of war between Germany and the United States. The nations are not likely to engage in a costly struggle over a matter that can be settled peacefully under exercise of a little control of the temper.

SIXTEEN MEN AND TWENTY HORSES LOST THROUGH THE ICE.

LONDON, January 29th.—The Foreign Office has made a provisional contract with twenty private persons, empowering them to form a company to work the port trade as a subsidiary of the British Consulate, and Captain Herbert is given a very severe warning against any such venture. Women, etc., are gone over and commented on. The article affects to dismiss, asocalled-for, "the mystery of the missing coupons," while the author of the article lays stress on the fact that the idea that Emperor Frederick was a "nightmare to the Chancellor." He furthermore knew from Frederick that he would never succeed his father. "Who could therefore be surprised?" writes the author, "that the Emperor, in his cancer to make haste?" The article also severely criticizes the present Emperor, and calls him a "weakling." The author, however, found no difficulty in treating his mother as a murderer after Emperor Frederick's own death.

AN Ovation to O'Brien.

MANCHESTER, January 29th.—The police started with Editor O'Brien Dublin this morning. A great crowd was gathered to give O'Brien an ovation. At Chester O'Brien cheered.

PARIS, January 29th.—Boulangier says the foreign Government does not see France united and gaining strength. This accounts for their outcry against the German opinion.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Double Payment of City Bonds.

E. RECORD UNION: I discovered not only the $72,000 missing coupons, but I also discovered the Auditor's record of cancellation of coupons for the year 1881. That record contains the entry of cancellation of coupons for May, June, July and August are all in one entry. But there were only a half dozen four hundred dollar bills paid in those months, and the Auditor did not seem to think it necessary to make separate entries of such small amounts. There were no coupons paid after August that year. I have also examined the Auditor's record referred to him by the Treasurer. I find the Treasurer surrendered to the Auditor something over $71,000 of 1881 coupons, and the Auditor failed to cancel even $9,000 or more.

In February the Treasurer surrendered to the Auditor about $47,000 of 1861 coupons, and he only canceled $2,130, leaving about $2,000 in all that passed through the Auditor's hands without cancellation.

The reason I express the amount by the indefinite word "about" is this: While the Auditor's books show exactly what number of coupons were issued him each month, they do not show exactly the number of 1861 coupons.

At the close of the year 1860 there were $624 of that year's coupons that had not been presented to the Auditor.

These coupons are now past due in the Auditor's books, and of necessity must have been presented and paid a second time.

But how came these cancelled coupons in the Auditor's office? After the Auditor had no further right to touch them. He got his receipt for them when he passed them over to the Auditor.

My theory is that when the Auditor discovered some of the coupons had been stolen from his office he cancelled what was left, arranged them by numbers, so they could easily be referred to, and placed them in the Treasurer's hands, to enable him to pay them off, and so that they might afford in detecting the cheat if the thief should present the stolen coupons for payment. I cannot account in any way for these coupons finding their way into an office where they never belonged.

Of course the Auditor never stole these coupons. If he had done so he would not have had a record of the fact. But he undoubtedly paid them off, and so their depreciation by carlessness in handling.

He paid them off, and by not promptly cancelling them, H. O. BEATTY.

Carnival of Nations.

There was another large audience at the Carnival of Nations entertainment last night at Armory Hall. The grand march was pronounced by all a beautiful spectacle.

The group of Greenaway children was the especial objects of flattering reference. The Egyptian booth contained the most attractive feature of the entire exhibition, and the admiration of the audience for its elegance, rich adornment, and the beautiful costume of the handsome women Mrs. Foye has gathered about her. The Grotto was well patronized by the public.

The Little Trianon ladies introduced dishes into their bill of light refreshment last night. In the former mention of the Reception at the Well-known Miss Lizzie Lyle's name was inadvertently omitted. The "well" people in their flowing garbs of bright colors were the objects of much attention last evening, and the musical group fairly divided with their rivals the comedy and style of musical tone, the number of high musical excellence.

Hundreds of old friends warmly welcomed Mrs. John McNeil, who sang in Sacramento in public last night for the first time in many years, and with the old spirit and the charm that have won her a general performance.

Though she accompanied herself, and there was noise in the hall of shrill ringing and rustling drapery, she commanded the attention of the audience with her clear, strong and powerful voice.
